

Vaughan builds up

Melbourne-based warehouse builder Vaughan Constructions has racked up 350,000 square metres of cold storage facilities developments over the past 20 years after the completion of a new 12,500-square-metre facility for AB Oxford Cold Storage in Laverton North. Vaughan Constructions has benefited from the growing demand for cold storage industrial assets, which CBRE has dubbed the move from “mining to dining”. The latest project for AB Oxford is understood to be valued at about $25 million.

LARRY SCHLESINGER